2. DATA COLLECTION ANALYSIS

2.6 Data Analysis Questions

Analyze the LEA’s data and answer the guiding questions to determine existing trends and patterns that support the identification of demographic and financial needs. Student subgroups with a count of less than 15 are denoted by “TFS” (too few students).

What perception data did you use?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Teaching and learning conditions surveys</li> <li>● Any perception survey data (parents, students, teachers, community, school leaders)</li> <li>● Self assessment tools</li> </ul>

What does the perception data tell you?	The data helped the administrative team at JDMS determine existing trends and patterns that support the identification of needs in the following areas: instruction, leadership, professional capacity, family/community engagement, and supportive learning environment.
---	---

What process data did you use?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Practices and procedures used to plan, deliver and monitor curriculum, instruction and assessment</li> <li>● Comprehensive evaluations of the school</li> <li>● Curriculum and instructional materials</li> <li>● Instruction (time and consistency among grade levels)</li> <li>● Academic interventions available to students Schedules and class size</li> <li>● Family/community involvement policies/practices Professional development structure</li> <li>● Services and/or programs</li> </ul>
--------------------------------	--

What does your process data tell you?	The processes and procedures being used at JDMS are consistent and pervasive. Although there will always be room for improvement, our process data revealed to us that we are actively working toward our school goals.
---------------------------------------	---

What achievement data did you use?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● GA Milestones Assessment Data</li> <li>● Benchmark Assessment Data</li> <li>● Universal Screener Data</li> <li>● Student Lexile Data</li> <li>● ACCESS for ELLs Data</li> </ul>
------------------------------------	--

What does your achievement data tell you?	Based on preliminary data from the FY19 GMAS scores, we have made growth in both content areas; however, we still have room for improvement. In language arts, the total number of students who scored at the developing, proficient, or distinguished level was 72% (growth from FY18). In math, the total number of students who scored at the developing, proficient, or distinguished level was 84% (growth from FY18). Thorough analysis of student achievement data has revealed: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● The need for professional learning in the area of research-based tier 1 instructional strategies is evident</li> <li>● Although gains are being made in the areas of reading and math, much focus and intervention is still needed in order to continue to see growth in these areas</li> <li>● Student Lexile levels are beginning to grow; however, in order to see more growth, there is a need for professional development in this area (instruction that focuses specifically on enhancing student Lexiles)</li> <li>● A need for consistent, guided writing instruction is apparent</li> </ul>

What demographic data did you use?	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● School locale and size of student population</li> <li>● Student characteristics, including poverty, language proficiency, IEP, migrant, race/ethnicity</li> <li>● Student mobility rates</li> <li>● Staff characteristics (experience, attendance, turnover)</li> <li>● List of school and feeder patterns</li> <li>● Student attendance</li> <li>● Discipline referrals and suspension rates</li> </ul>

What does the demographic data tell you?	After reviewing multiple demographic data sources, it is obvious that the socioeconomic status of our county is low. A large majority of our students come from low income, single parent homes. This has a direct effect on the performance and achievement of many of these students.
