1. PLANNING AND PREPARATION

1.1 Identification of Team

The comprehensive needs assessment team consists of people who are responsible for working collaboratively throughout the needs assessment process. Ideal team members possess knowledge of programs, the capacity to plan and implement the needs assessment, and the ability to ensure stakeholder involvement. A required team member’s name may be duplicated when multiple roles are performed by the same person. Documentation of team member involvement must be maintained by the LEA. Watch the Planning and Preparation webinar for additional information and guidance.

How will the team ensure that stakeholders are able to provide meaningful feedback throughout the needs assessment process?	The team ensures that stakeholders are able to provide meaningful feedback by providing numerous and varied opportunities for them to do so. Feedback is sought during leadership team meetings, school council meetings and stakeholder meetings that are held throughout the spring and early summer. Invitations to these meetings are shared through social media, the local newspaper, and school memos. Surveys are completed by stakeholders and results are compiled once all meetings have taken place.

2. DATA COLLECTION ANALYSIS

2.6 Data Analysis Questions

Analyze the LEA’s data and answer the guiding questions to determine existing trends and patterns that support the identification of demographic and financial needs. Student subgroups with a count of less than 15 are denoted by “TFS” (too few students).

What perception data did you use?	Data from personnel and stakeholder surveys was collected and compared to data collected during classroom walkthroughs, peer observations, and collaborative meetings.

What does the perception data tell you?	The data collected indicates that most people surveyed believe that Jeff Davis Primary: There is an operational coherent instructional system in place. Collaboration occurs regularly and common expectations for teaching and learning are supported by grade level curriculum documents and resources. A positive learning environment that is conducive to learning is present in most classrooms as evidenced by the use of the language of the standards, effective use of technology, regular differentiation, use of effective instructional practices, and consistent delivery of interventions. Even though common assessments are utilized by most content areas, there is still a need for more extensive, systematic, and collaborative process for analyzing assessment results to adjust instruction. Additionally, the consensus was that there needs to be more attention given to grading practices in order to ensure consistency across all content areas and grades. Although there is an increased expectation for students to monitor their own progress, survey results indicated that only some students are actively doing so. At JDPS, the leadership effectively builds and sustains relationships while initiating, supporting, and sustaining change. There is a process for shared decision-making and a common vision and mission. The school leadership team is well-established and meets periodically to support teaching and learning, as well as to collaborate on the development, implementation, and monitoring of the school improvement plan. A system is in place to ensure effective implementation of curriculum, assessment, instruction, and professional development. The performance of teachers and staff is monitored and evaluated, on-going support is provided based on group and individual needs. Some processes are in place to systematically and regularly analyze data. Professional capacity is developed through a systematic and on-going professional development process that focuses on teaching and learning. Professional development needs are identified through a collaborative process and staff actively participate in professional learning activities. Professional development is primarily job embedded and accessed through a variety of ways including collaboration, on and off campus trainings, data analysis, as well as collaborative and individual online learning. Extensive resources and systems are in place to support and sustain on-going professional learning.

What does the perception data tell you?	JDPS fosters a welcoming environment that encourages and family and community to connect with the school. Regular communication and effectively established and implemented structures are in place that promote open and interactive communication. Partnerships with the community and businesses through meetings, collaboration, and shared activities provide opportunities for shared decision making and engagement with the school. The school also regularly connects families and students with community support resources when needed. Part of the supportive learning environment that is evident at JDPS is reinforced by the development, communication, and implementation of rules, practices, and procedures that help maintain a safe, orderly learning environment.
---	---

What process data did you use?	The written and unwritten processes guiding meetings, collaborative planning, delivery of instruction, common assessments, assessment analysis, and RTI protocols were reviewed to identify areas of consistency and strength, as well as areas that need additional attention.
--	--

What does your process data tell you?	A review of our current processes and protocols indicated that many teachers, staff members, and teams adhere to the processes that are in place, but there is a need for continued communication and monitoring of these processes. Due to the implementation of the FY19 SIP Plan, many current processes and protocols were revised for consistency and clarity and evidence revealed increased fidelity and consistency to the expected processes and protocols such as commitment to collaborative planning, consistent assessment practices, and use of effective instructional strategies. There is still a need to strengthen and align processes for common grading and data analysis, as well as the processes and expectations for students to review and monitor their own progress.

What achievement data did you use?	Overall, teachers and content teams reviewed data from DIBELS Next, common assessments, iRead, iLearn MGD, The Reading Inventory (RI), and progress monitoring data. More specifically, the school leadership team focused on DIBELS Next and Lexile scores from RI. Additionally, ACCESS scores were reviewed for EL students.
--	--

What does your achievement data tell you?	Our achievement data indicates a continued need to improve student achievement in reading, to strengthen reading instruction and there is still room for improvement in math. JDPS continues to hold high expectations for reading and math achievement and the overall consensus is that more students should be meeting end of the year proficiency goals. However, gains in reading achievement, as measured by DIBELS, were made in both kindergarten (74% in FY18 to 85% in FY19) and first grade (50% in FY18 to

What does your achievement data tell you?	65% in FY19). Even though there was not a gain in second grade achievement, there was not a decline in achievement and the percentage of students meeting the end of the year benchmark held steady at 65%. When looking at sub-group data, EL, SWD, and ED all showed gains in kindergarten and first grade. Gains were also evident for second grade EL students, but small decreases (less than 6%) were noted in both the SWD and ED categories in second grade. Results for the Black subgroup stood out because a gain (+36%) was only evident in first grade. Both kindergarten and second grade experienced a decrease in the achievement of this subgroup (K = -10, 2nd = -18). The changes in achievement of for the Black subgroup is directly opposite of what was noted last year when there was a significant decrease in first grade scores. EL scores also showed dramatic improvement from last year with 91% of all EL students meeting the end of the year benchmark for ACCESS testing as compared to 83% last year. Data from the iLearn Multi-Grade Diagnostic (MGD) showed growth in all three grade levels. The average overall score on the MGD was 80% accuracy of grade level material, a 10% increase from last year. This increase was replicated by all subgroups (within 2%).

3. NEEDS IDENTIFICATION AND ROOT CAUSE ANALYSIS

3.1 Strengths and Challenges Based on Trends and Patterns

Read the trends and patterns summaries from each section of the data analysis process. Use the information in these summaries to complete 3.2 and 3.3. Using the summaries in 3.1 and other local data, describe the strengths and challenges or answer the guiding questions for each program. Include strengths and challenges related to: a) general program implementation, and b) students and adults involved in or affected by the program. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?	The effective leadership trends and patterns observed indicate that there is a shared mission and vision which guide the day to day activities of the school and its continuous improvement process. They are evident in our supportive and effective school leadership that fosters and maintains supportive relationships with and among all staff. The administration supports, expects, and monitors the effective implementation of curriculum, assessments, instruction, and professional development. A school leadership team is instrumental in decision making, goal-setting, and monitoring effectiveness of programs and initiatives for the school. It consists of the principal, assistant principal, and school improvement specialist as well as representatives from all stakeholder groups within the school. The team meets regularly and assists the administration with making data-driven decisions that affect student achievement, as well as assists in reviewing data and developing the school improvement plan, as well as to disseminate information to other staff

Professional Capacity: Summarize the professional capacity trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?	Professional learning and building capacity among staff occurs in a variety of ways through out the year during job-embedded collaboration, training sessions delivered by consultants, the building school improvement specialist outside agencies and online, as well as attendance at workshops or conferences. The leadership team and administration determine what professional learning is needed by reviewing data from surveys and needs assessments and student achievement data. Even though new teachers have been hired to fill openings left by retiring or resigning teachers, all teachers continue to be highly qualified.

A less than 1% increase in student discipline incidents demonstrates that JDPS has a safe, orderly, and well-managed learning environment. A system of supports is provided through counseling services and intervention processes. In addition to helping students who may be struggling or having difficulty, JDPS consistently recognizes and celebrates student successes. This year, students successes such as perfect attendance and reading achievement were recognized in a variety of ways. Reading achievement was rewarded weekly with medals and rewards, as well as at the end of the year. Perfect attendance incentives

Demographic and Financial: Summarize the demographic and financial trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?	A consistent trend has been Jeff Davis Primary’s continued participation in the Community Eligibility Program (CEP). Due to the high poverty rate, 100% of JDPS students eat free. Another trend is that the Hispanic, EL, and migrant populations continue to rise. With almost one quarter of the student population being made up of Hispanic students whose home language is predominantly Spanish, JDPS must continue to utilize funds and strategies to support these students. Additionally, JDPS must continue to foster communication and engagement with their families. JDPS currently supports our EL and migrant students through the ESOL program and migrant tutoring. Parent communications are translated into Spanish and a translator is available during parent programs when possible.

Student Achievement: Summarize the student achievement trends and patterns observed by the team while completing this section of the report. What are the important trends and patterns that will support the identification of student, teacher, and leader needs?	There is evidence of a new trend in student achievement . Increases are evident in both Kindergarten and first grade end of the year DIBELS scores. Kindergarten increased the percentage of students meeting the end of the year goal from 74% last year to 85% this year. First grade showed a similar increase from 50% last year to 65% this year. Even though second grade did not show and increase, they maintained 65% of students meeting the end of the year goal. Again this year, only about 50% of second grade students attained a Lexile level that is proficient or above the grade level goal of 420. Even though the percentage of second grade students scoring BR is not increasing significantly, the percentage of students meeting grade level proficiency by the end of second grade is not increasing significantly either.
